Neuhaus receives 2017 Manufacturing Champion Award from Council of Industry

Award given to individuals and organizations that help manufacturers in the Hudson Valley grow and prosper

Goshen, N.Y. – Orange County Executive Steven M. Neuhaus was recently recognized by the Council of Industry, the manufacturing association of the Hudson Valley, as one of its 2017 Manufacturing Champion Award recipients.

The award recognizes individuals and organizations that, through vision, dedication, hard work and involvement, have helped to overcome some of the obstacles faced by manufacturers in the Hudson Valley, making it possible for these companies to succeed.

“It was an honor to be recognized by The Council of Industry as its 2017 Manufacturing Public Sector Champion,” Neuhaus said. “As County Executive, I will remain committed to building the manufacturing sector in Orange County by advocating for investment in infrastructure and workforce development, which will help this industry be successful and continue to grow.”

The Council of Industry has been the manufacturer’s association for the Hudson Valley since 1910. It is a privately funded not-for-profit organization, whose mission is to promote the success of its member firms and their employees, and through them contribute to the success of the Hudson Valley Community.

“Throughout his career, County Executive Neuhaus has been an advocate for investment in infrastructure and workforce and economic development strategies that help manufacturers grow,” said Harold King, Executive Vice President of the Council of Industry. “He is committed to tax and regulatory policies that foster economic growth benefiting all of Orange County’s businesses and residents. Steve Neuhaus is a problem solver who helps to find solutions and successful outcomes not just for manufacturers, but everyone. We appreciate his efforts on our behalf and are glad to recognize him with this award.”
